International Keynote

Susan Books-Young

Susan Brooks-Young has been involved in the field of instructional technology since 1979. She was one of the original technology users in the district where she taught and has continued to explore ways in which technology can be used to facilitate student learning. She has worked as computer mentor, technology trainer, and technology curriculum specialist.

Prior to establishing her own consulting firm, Susan was a teacher, site administrator, and technology specialist in a county office of education in a career that spanned more than 23 years. Since 1986, she has published articles and software reviews in a variety of education journals. She is also author of seven books which focus on how school leaders can implement technology..

Susan works with educators, focusing on practical technology-based strategies for personal productivity and effective technology implementation in schools.

Australian Speakers

Roger Pryor

Roger has been involved with the NSWCEG over a number of years including as a presenter and dinner entertainment at one of our conferences at CSU Bathurst.

Roger Pryor is currently a School Education Director (SED) with the NSW Department of Education and Training, based in Newcastle within the Hunter Central Coast Region.

Within this role Roger has oversight of 33 schools and a range of regional portfolio responsibilities including the integration of ICT within quality teaching.

Prior to this, Roger was a primary school Principal for 16 years and has also worked within the Leadership Development Unit and as the Website Manager, and later President, of the NSW Primary Principals' Association.

The conference is supported by a wide variety of break-out sessions and workshops

Christine Cawsey

Christine Cawsey is the principal of Rooty Hill High School, a highly successful, cosmopolitan, comprehensive 7 – 12 school in the western suburbs of Sydney. In 2007, she was a winner in the National Awards for Quality Schooling for Excellence by a Principal and in April 2008, her book, Learning for Leadership, written with Michelle Anderson from ACER, was published.

She is Deputy President of the NSW Secondary Principals' Council and a delegate to ASPA.

In 2008 she is leading a joint project for the Public Primary and Secondary Principals' organisations in NSW on principal authority and accountability. Her academic interests include school culture, communication, leadership development and quality teaching. She regularly presents to student and adult audiences on a range of themes and has a reputation for engaging, humorous and challenging presentations.

Glenda Johnstone

Glenda Johnstone is Head of Technological and Applied Studies (TAS) at Kincoppal-Rose Bay School.

In 2007, she was awarded a CEG Medal.

In 1989, Glenda was involved with the formation of the Computing Studies Teachers' Association (CSTA) as well as becoming a member of the NSWCEG and participating in the NSWCEG conferences. As a foundation member of the CSTA she has taken on the roles of committee member, Secretary, Treasurer and President and was made a life member of the Association in 2002. She has presented workshops at both CSTA and the NSWCEG conferences over several years.

Through her involvement with the CSTA, she has participated in a variety of Board of Studies (BOS) committees, including, HSC exam committees for Applied Studies and SDD. She has been a HSC marker and Senior Marker of Computing Studies, SDD and IPT.

The conference comprises

Invited Keynotes: These invited speakers are used to create the overall tone of the conference, to set the scene and begin the conversations.

Workshops: These are generally one hour long and range from hands-on activities to reports on activities in schools. Details of the program will be on our website

Trade Expo: Our conference is supported by a large number of sponsors and commercial organisations. These provide the most extensive range of trade goods and services on offer to the education market.

Accommodation: An extensive range of accommodation options are available in Newcastle. A list of options and contact details are on our website. The club has substantial parking and it is within walking distance of Newcastle railway station.

Lunch: All lunches, morning and afternoon teas are included in the registration costs.

Conference Venue: The venue is the Panthers Club. We are using the first floor. The exhibition and the function rooms are on the same level
